

Message from the NaBITA President

March 1, 2017

Dear NaBITA members,

I hope everyone is settled into the New Year and having good winter months. Only 3 weeks to go until Spring, March 20, 2017. For those of us in New York, we actually count the days. As I said when we all met at our annual conference in November, 2016, I want my year as President to be a collaborative effort. This means committee participation, input and feedback from members, suggestions for pilot projects, subcommittees, white papers, and any other suggestions you, our members, have. Our continuing goal is to make NaBITA the very best it can be as we move forward into our 9th year. Our numbers grow each year and I want very much to keep that momentum going. It truly does “take a village” to make organizations like ours responsive and productive for all of us.

I plan going forward to make this Letter from the President something you receive monthly. I am a big believer in communication, collaboration and input and welcome any and all suggestions you may have for me to make my Letter the most helpful for you it can be. I welcome links I can include on topics of interest to you; new innovations in Behavioral Intervention Teams we can share amongst ourselves, as experts in the field; hot topics of interest you would like to see in future seminars, webinars, related conferences or our next Annual Conference in November 2017; any writings you have or will be submitting to professional publications on BITs or any media in which you have been a participant. I am big on sharing as well.

Thank you for taking the time out of your always busy schedules as I know they are and for your continued interest in and support of NaBITA. I look forward to hearing from you often.

Very best regards,
Carolyn Reinach Wolf, Esq.
